DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: On Page 4, Line 5, both terms "connection segment" and "main body" are given the reference numeral "5".

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 1 is objected to under 57 CFR 1.75(i) which requires each element or step of the claimed invention to be separated by a line indentation.
3. The claims are objected to because they include reference characters which are not enclosed within parentheses.

Reference characters corresponding to elements recited in the detailed description of the drawings and used in conjunction with the recitation of the same element or group of elements in the claims should be enclosed within parentheses so as to avoid confusion with other numbers or characters which may appear in the claims. See MPEP § 608.01(m).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claim 1 recites the limitations "the both side walls" and "the opened portion in Line 6. There is insufficient antecedent basis for those limitations in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Guillaume et al. (US 6,468,078) in view of Andreiko (US 5,752,826) and Brandhorst et al. (US 6,302,690).

Guillaume et al. discloses a dental tray including a main body with a knob (Figs. 1,2,5); having a molding part (4); tray main body being formed with a protrusion (6) and a bridging recess (the hole where element 7 is located in Fig. 6) formed at a predetermined interval along both side walls (Figs. 5 and 6); a connection segment (5) with a designed with having a bridging groove (formed between element 7 and 20 in Fig.6) and a bridging recess (formed at element 6); and whereby the bridging groove and the recess of the connection segment (5) is detachably joined to the protrusion and recess element of the main body (Figs. 5 and 6). However, Gulliaume et al. does not disclose a dental tray being made of aluminum and a connection segment being made of transparent synthetic resin.

Andreiko teaches a dental tray being made of aluminum in order to give the tray the necessary rigidity while still allowing for the tray to be formed manually by an orthodontist (Column 7, Lines 43-49). Brandhorst et al. teaches a dental tray being preferably made of synthetic resin in order to allow for a material that is easier to manipulate (Column 1, Lines 32-36). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Guillaume with a tray being made of aluminum, as taught by Andreiko, and a connection segment being made of synthetic resin, as taught by Brandhorst, in order to allow for a tray that is rigid and for a connection segment that can be easily manipulated by the orthodontist.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See PTO-892 Form.
